NUS STAR YEARBOOK NORTH SIN HIGH SCHOOL 1934 VOL 20

FOREWORD

With the edition of this book another year in the history of Northwestern has been brought to a close—a year presenting new companionships, achievements, ideals, and hopes for the future. As this is the twentieth anniversary of the school, the Norwester staff has endeavored to record this year's activities and accomplishments as a memorial.

The theme selected for the occasion of Northwestern's twentieth birthday is "History casts its shadow far into the land of song," from Longfellow's "Outre Mer." The theme expressed to the staff the idea of the debt we owe the past, and the hope we have for the future. This idea is conveyed through the division pages designed by the art department, and photographed by Robert McRoy.

A record of the accomplishments of Northwestern students in their class activities, their clubs, their athletics, and their scholastic attainments is herein presented.

The Norwester has strived this year to be more truly representative of the student body, and therefore has introduced the under-graduate division. The honor students of each grade have been photographed and a brief resume of each group's major interests has been given.

For the purpose of compiling a permanent memorial of the past year, the Norwester staff began in the fall of 1933 to undertake this enjoyable task. Through the fine co-operation of the editorial staff, the art staff, the advertising staff, the photographic staff, and the publicity staff we present to you the 1934 Norwester with a sincere regard for your satisfaction, and the hope that each succeeding Norwester may improve upon the preceding edition.

THE EDITORS.

To All Northwesterners, Past, Present, and Future:

Greetings!

It is a great thing to belong to a great institution.

Northwestern in the past has been a great institution.

Northwestern today is greater than ever before.

The Northwestern of the future will be greater still, provided you make it so.

"Once a Northwesterner, always a Northwesterner!" Let this be our slogan! The best way to keep good deeds in memory is to refresh them with better.

DEDICATION

To Northwestern

The institution which for twenty years has prepared the youth of the northwest area of Detroit, we dedicate with reverent feeling this 1934 Norwester. The ground upon which the buildings stand shall ever be held in high esteem by the Alumni. The inspiration which North western High School has provided to her graduates will ever guide them through their individual endeavors.

May the high standards of scholarship and the ideals of service and co-operation continue to develop worthy and useful citizens

WILLIAM CLARK DOOLITTLE In Memoriam

W than Clark Doobttle, a mathematics instructor in Northwestern High School for the past nucteen years, died early Sunday morning, April 29, 1934, a victim of pneumon rn on a farm just outside Kalamazoo, he was educated in Western State Teachers' College and the University of Mich gan. While teaching Detroit, he had taken special courses at the University of Detroit, only to gratify a desire make a better teacher of himself.

he first taught at the old Detroit University School until called back to Kalamazoo by the illness of his father. After his father's death he ived with his mother and taught at Kalamazoo High School for one year. The next year he fourneyed to Detroit—gain and began teaching it Northwestern High School in September, 1915.

In college he was known as "Bill" to his friends and Dooley to thousands of acquaintances. His days were crowded with many responsibilities, nevertheless he always took time to lend a helping hand to a friend or student.

Northwestern has lost a valued and much beloved teacher; the students have lost a kindly and sympathetic guide; the teachers have lost a friend whose cooperative spirit and understanding will be greatly missed. This close friends feel they have lost a brother

His journey is completed, he is gone from our most, but his work lives on

The Principal's Message

Northwestern High School completed its twentieth year recently. Nearly eight thousand graduates have passed thre ghatts doors into higher institutions of learning or into commercial and industrial field. Thousands of others have profit d by study here, although circumstances prevented g. Sustion

These numbers are indicative of the influence Northwestern High School has had and will continue to have in Detroit. Parents are to be congratulated that they have made a high school education possible for their children. Pupils should apprec ate the opportunity afforded them. May both continue cooperation with the faculty, and may success reward this cooperation.

The enrollment in September, 1933 was 3,534, and in February, 1934, 3,513. There were 300 students graduated from Northwestern in the Class of January, 1934. The May Class will number 500

The outstanding event of the year was the celebration of the twentieth anniversary of the school. A dinner was held at the Women's City Club on February 12, 1934 with Mr. E. L. Miller as the guest of honor. Speeches were made by Mr. Frank Cody, Super intendent of Schools; Dr. Burt Shurly, Member of the Board of Education; Mr. E. L. Miller, and several members of the faculty. Miss May Jachnig, Head of the English Department, acted as Toastmistress. One hundred and sixty-four teachers, clerks, guests, and former members of the faculty were present.

RHYTHMIC REVIEW OF '34

As we stepped from our cab in front of the theatre there was a fine drozzle of rain. An excited crowd was assuing thru the theatre doors to witness the opening performance of "The Review of 34", in which is depicted the present status of the members of the North was ern grad ang class of January, 1934.

We entered and while being taken to our seats the face of the usher seemed familiar-Arthur Woodward, of course. His extensive R. O. T. C. training is not entirely useless after all

The lights dam and the house darkens. A moment of silence, the orchestra bursts into an unusual arrangement of "So At Last It's Come To This!" The instant the "spot" with thrown on the conductor I recognized him. The program announced Francois le Brint well maybe, but when I knew him he was Al Fortune

The orchestra swings into a piamissimo arrangement of "Tiptoe Thru the Tulips." The curtain parts to show a meadow. A shin, poetic, young man with flowing black hair, is singing passionately to a bit of dainty feminiatly as they come tripping along. Why, it is Jack McElhone and Helen-Marie Davis. The old eyebrow finally got him

With the playing of "Wagon Wheels" we see a peddler's wagon crossing the stage. Atop it sits a man, by his own word the mind of the century, whose superb intelligence and intellect is expressed in his work. It is Frank Madden. We marvel at the way he calls his wares, so melodiously, "Fresh Fish!"

The orchestra suddenly stops, and from the stage we hear rancous squeaks which hear a slight resemblance to "Turkey in the Straw". We see a harn dance in full swing. Music is being furnished by the Barnyard Trio composed of Berwick, Mallon and Keppel. There is a group of farmers and their wives present. Among them we recognize Dick Markham and Margaret Lefter. Margaret seems to like cabbages. Another couple present is Fred Arzt. I had McClelend.

The next strains heard from the orchestra are those of "Honeymoon Hotel". A romantic young couple are waltzing to the registration desk. The tempo changes and the girl begins to sing "Me and My Shadow." How familiar that sounds—oh, Laura Spencer and Earl Gresswell.

Suddenly the performance is interrupted by a most uncanny group. As the lights went on we saw Virginia Ward who had fainted dead as —the orchestra crashed into the chorus of "I Just Couldn't Take II, Baby!"

With the playing of "Just A Gigolo" a tall, sad-cycd blond appears. The scene represents the Fastern Star Cafe. As he sings his soulful song, Gigolo Rawson throws pale roses at the ladies until he sees a desolate but prosperous looking Titian haired maiden seated at a corner table. "Ah, my love, you have come," and he dashed over to Ma

Ashley Coburn, master of ceremonies, announces the first act of the floor show. The Hawman dancer, Harriett Fritchey, appears. As she goes thru the paces of her somtillating rhythm, Lowell Kreig, captain of the fleet, "Ego," sitting at a nearby table, looks yearningly at the charming dancer who spurped his love. Whale oil is his cargo—we hear rumored

Next to Kreig's table, we see Virginia Houghton and Bob Adams having a discussion with the waiter: Virginia does insist that Bob have his daily glass of milk

A hush fell over the assembled group as the next soloist, Mary Boswell, began to sing "Two Loves Have I." We noticed that her fingers were crossed as she turned and winked slyly at a tall, dark gigolo

Once again, the performance is interrupted as a woman dashes upon the stage crying "stop this show." It is none other than Pat Smyth, president of the board of censors Before the axe she is carrying does any harm, she is carried off the stage by the head janitor, Gordon Templin

As the curtain rises for the last scene, we see bithel Shearer and Lloyd Wilson tearing madiy around in an interpretive dance. The orchestra is divided into two sections, one plays "The House Is Haunted" and the other "You Nasty Man". They are the propertors of the "Butterfly Dancing School," and are teaching their papils the "Mosquito Masquerade." As the dance ends, the entire class appears on the stage for the grand finale, the orchestra accompanying with "Auf Wiederschen". A last shout is heard from Virginia Houghton, "Bob, have you your rubbers on?" and the curtain falls.

Robot Revelations

"Good atternoon, sir. I am the Fullerbrush man. Now I've-" and the caller's profes sional smile melted into a look of unbelieving

So it was that professor George Goldstone invited salesman Tom Carter in. After tales how each had realized his aspirations, the conversation drifted to high school remi-

"I wonder what ever happened to Ruth Lepper?" mused Tom, dreamly

"Say," responded the professor, "let's find out what has happened to some other members of the class of '34. Now I have a bit of an invention here - Robot", he called, and I responded at once. After my telegraph apparatus had been connected and final instructions given me, I rose with a crescendo into the atmosphere, travelling a mile a second

As I felt the prick of the needle, I dropped, pianissimo, to the ground, and found myself n what you mortals call a graveyard. At the sound of a mournful wail, I beheld Robert Offic" Duncan, emitting tears, which fell into some drooping buttercups in his hand. "Oh death, where is thy strug? My love hath forsaken me. Rita! After a minute-long leap, I found myself on the porch of a "Cottage Small by a Water tall." When I heard a thunder-like thud, I peeped through the window. Angus McGaryah lay in a battered heap on the floor, with the awesome figure of Theresa Downey standing above him. "That will teach you who's boss", she bellowed

I was waltzing down "The Boulevard of Broken Dreams." I stopped before a shop whose window contained two woe-begone figures. Above the door, a sign read. Second-hand Shop for Wornsout Cagoloes. The figures were none other than Clare Prince and Alfie Ionas.

When I zoomed into the lobby of Grind Hotel, there was Mary MacDonald, and behind her, with luggage in hand, stood Douglas Frede, a dashing figure in his hellhop regala-Mary was here to attend the International meeting of the Hook-a-man Club along with Jane Abele, Doris Caldwell, and Jean Cottrell, who were registered at the same hotel As I walked into the kitchen, I heard, "Woe is me, woe is me"-Virginia Mott is still trying to make Soop. That night, I entered into the merry-making of the dining room to find Mary Kelkenney the featured attracton of the floor show. (Although she has Mae West characteristics, "no-one comes up to see her anytime") Then a crash of dishes resounded throughout the room, and all eyes focused upon Johnny Young, who emerged from the slightly disordered mess on the floor. Gazing about at the more than happy guests, I saw Caris Beatty and Bill Allen dining together, in a rather secluded corner. That's enough to prove that Bill is putting to use the dues he collected in '34

At "One Minute to One", I whirled away, and at the time when most people are having their "Coffee in the Morning", I landed with a forte bang in the laundry of the Fisher "Y". The crew of janitors, Johnny Stirling, J. L. Cooper, and Lawrence Rorem, stood in an excited group. By breaking into their midst, I learned that they were attempting to rescui their fellow worker, Garrett Burgess, who had thoughtlessly attempted swimming practice m a scrub pail. The head jaintor, Hugh Vail, was murmuring, "Don't Blame Me"

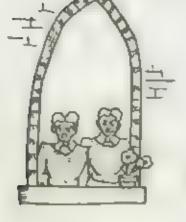

On to Switzerland, and I came to a halt in the midst of a group of khaki-clad men Captain Bob Keim roared orders at a mile a minute even though the lesser privates, Elbert Carpenter, William Chapman, and Bob Coughlin paid no attention at two miles a minute But such is life in the Swiss Army

A charming reporter, Muriel Frankfurth, dashed up to me when I arrived in New York and wished knowledge of my travels. I learned that she was slaving away on a newspaper, whose editor they call Ed-

For the second time, I landed on another porch, and the name-plate read: Shippy. An Odds and Ends party was in full progress, and some of the odds and ends present, were Jane Roberts, Rodelle Broder, Marian Petregum, Mary Kannally, and Annie Lukes, who was staging a scene from "Grumps.

I hopped downtown from there, to witness the talked about shopping district of Detroit Upon entering "Kennedy's Clothing Store," I saw the owner leaning over the counter, and singing to Norma Pioch, a clerk, "Everything I Have Is Yours"

Oddly enough, I found Jim McCallum still a reluctant bachelor. He continues to make the rounds, trying to get a date, but the whole thing ends with Jim setting home, "All Alone" For the "Last Round-Up", I discovered Bud Van Otteren with Beverly Guilloz. The conversation caused a short circuit and I fell with a splintering crash to the ground

Education is the only interest worthy the deep control ing anxiety of the Thoughtful man"-Wender, Philippin

Northwestern offers three courses of study, the General, the College Preparatory and the Commercial Each individual pupil should carefully study the courses offered and then select the one which meets his needs and desires. The school can then serve him effectively

There have been many changes in curriculum and faculty since 1914. New subjects have cen added to meet the changing economic and social order. As we have more leisure than our ancestors, training in its worthy use is of vital importance. Reading, music, art and all possible athletic games are a part of the high school course. Today we recognize that the formation of character is the supreme and all inclusive end of education. The off co-operation, so essential to all progress, must be developed. The school aims to establish a sense of social unity and responsibility, stressing the obligations as well as the obliges of citizensh.

Each pupil is recognized as a separate and distinct personality and helped to a better ind buer expression of bit

With these general aims of the Detroit Public Schools in mind the Norwester staff attempts to sketch brut the activities of each grade

The first half of one's Senior Year is interesting and eventful. By the time the pupils reach the twelfth grade they have, to some extent, determined what their major interests in school are. The subjects offered challenge the imagination as will as create a demand for better concentration and habits of study. No matter which course of study is pursued every pupil is required to take certain subjects that have been deemed advisable for a well rounded high school ediction. A selection may be made in almost every department is there are many one semester courses offered which give Semor Credit

Extra-curricule activities play a significant part in the average 12-R's life. Late in the semester they meet for the first time as a class for the purpose of electing a representative who receives the spade from the graduating class. This same spade, which turned over the first piece of sod upon which Northwestern is built, has been handed to the 12-R representative bi-annually for the past twenty years. The significance of the ceremony impresses all who witness

From the twelfth grade the majority of our student leaders are chosen. They serve in responsible positions on the Student Council; as editors of the various publications; they play the leads in athletics, plays and operas; they represent the school at many community enterprises and some of them are called upon to serve as aids in an over burdened school unit

Mount Vernon House

Pershing House

Mount Verion is the only house which claims the distinction of having been in the same room since the year Northwestern History began

In January, 1914, Mount Vernon came into existence with fifty-four members, under the providincy of Mursel Drake. Now, twenty years later, Mount Vernon houses four hundred and forty students, with Mary Boswell and Theresa Downey as presidents of the fall and spring terms, respectively.

The high record of Mount Vernon scholarship has kept pace with the growth of the house

Mount Vernou's social events are an important function of the house. During the past year, there were two house parties and two teas

The garls showed a fine spirit of co-operation in their social service work, athletic endrayors, and in the untiring work of the house committees, who, in every way, made the de room attractive

With as fine a principal as Miss Clarissa Vyn, and the excellent leaders of the past twenty years, every Mount Vernon undertaking has been worth while and in keeping with the motto, "I viux acta probat"— the outcome proves the deed

Pershing House was or imized at the close of the World War under the principalship of Mr. Munro, the name being taken from one of our greatest American heroes, John J. Pershino.

With Mr. Mais' coaching, I'ersbing triumphed in house swimming, and basketball, but lost to Lincoln House in football, and to Roosevelt House in track. Pershing again holds the intramural plaque

Because of the large number of boys in Pershing this term, all those whose last names begin with "G" were organized into a new division called New Marshall. Frine Gregory was elected President; Joseph Gibson, Vice-Fresident; Wilber Green, Secretary; and Watson Colon, Treasurer

Pershing was most fortunate in securing entertaining programs throughout the year. These were possible only by the co-operation and ability of such students as Charles beinger and Richard Fiserman.

Twenty years ago, a group of girls organized in room 203, and chose Betsy Ross for the name of their graderoom. In the national flag, they found their symbol and colors. The motto, "e pluribus unum" (all with one purpose), was selected because it conformed to the general idea of the symbol.

This year, under the leadership of Elsa McClelend and Mary MacDonald, Betsy Ross has upheld the high principles on which the house was founded

True to tradition, 203 excelled in scholarship

Betsy Ross girls this year ended the depression by giving a party in the form of a radio broadcast for all members of the graderoom. Throughout the year fine programs were provided by the able chairman, Florence Keywell.

As for athletics, the girls of 205 are well endowed with a fighting spirit. Many Betsy Ross representatives were on the varsity hockey, swimming, and basketball teams

Through the willing co-operation of Mr Jerome, and the encouragement of its officers, Roosevelt House has this year achieved considerable success in attaining a sense of honorand personal freedom consistent with good work

In publication activities, outstanding work for the "Colt" was done by ...ck McLeod; for the "Odds and Ends" by Jack McFlhone

Roosevelt House furnished the debating team with two active members; James Irwin and Lowell Krieg

E. Warren Hart was captain of the swimming team; and Edwin Lindsay led the spring terms team. Roosevelt boys contributed generously to other school teams

The keen fighting spirit of the house manifested itself by winning first place in house swimming and track; also, the honor roll has been consistently large

The members wish, in conclusion, that subsequent years may find Roosevelt House a worthy of its name as it is today

For twenty years, this song has represented the sentiment of the girls who have called 201 their house. Tane Austen is one of the few graderooms which has existed since the opening of Northwestern High School in 1914.

On February 12, Jane Austen House celebrated the twentieth anniversary of the school by inviting the first house principal, the first house president, and many former students who are now teaching in Northwestern to speak to the girls.

The precedents of Jane Austen House have not changed radically from year to year, will never change completely

THE STUDENT COUNCIL

The only representative body of the pupils of Northwestern High School is the Student Council. It has done much to benefit the school. In the fall semester, under the leadership of Jack McFibone, the Council sold football tickets, bought shoulder straps for the R.O.T.C. and conducted the sale of banners.

Other officers of this able body were Mary MacDonald, vice-president; Jane Roberts recording secretary; Theresa Downey, corresponding secretary; and Bill Allan, treasurer

It is the duty of each council to undertake the sale of an the second hand book store, to elect the Celebs from the January and May graduating classes, and to award two scholarship medids, one to the senior girl and one to the senior boy having the highest scholarship average for the three years of high school work.

This Council gave money for the support of needy Northwestern pupils to purchasi books and clothes, and also have given to Mr. Rivett all the proceeds of their three dances for his fund for the needy. A fox trot contest was the main feature of the second dance, the winners of which received a prize. The third dance was attended by no less a personage than Santa Claus who gave all those present candy canes. A grand march was still by the Semor class treasurer and vice-president. The decorations of these dances were given to other organizations in the school which had use for them

The spring Council also accomplished a great deal, particularly by aiding the departments with supplies and other services expressly needed

Under the leadership of William Wreford, this year's council was one of the best Northwestern has had

At the installation of the Student Council, Mr. Scott gave a very interesting and unusual talk. The Council went to work at once to live up to the expectations of the teachers and the student body by planning three dances all of which have been given with the determinant to forget monetary gains. The aim has been to give the students a real good time and it the same time to maintain the high standard of entertainment for which the Council is noted. Although the Council this term was composed almost entirely of mexperienced members, the various representatives were started to work immediately, giving their services the first days of this semester to direct the incoming pupils about the school and to open the second-hand book store which has been a real and in past times

To carry out their plan of aid g the school they have given fifty dollars to Mr. Rivett's needy fund, presented the school blorary with several volumes of greatly desired books, endowed the Physics department with a microphone which has been a great aid in furthering experiments and adding attraction to auditorium activities, donated fifteen dollars to the Art department, presented money to beautify the cooking room, had the French Flags cleaned and bought this department a mill

This Council has adapted a plan of student identification which has proven quite successful. As there is always a group of anti-social individuals who are guilty of theft in every school, it is hoped that this plan will diminish stealing. All students are given a small card which enables the pupil to return to the blirary after going home, while at the same time it eliminates undesirables from school. In case of any accident this card tells who the student is and where he belongs. Failure to earry it at school will bring drastic punishment. The Student Council sincerely desires that the students will cooperate as it is for their own good, by corying these cards with them at all times. Furthermore, the school issued cards for athletes which permits them to re-enter school for practice, and the council has even gone further to stop abuses in the school by introducing the system of stamping books.

Acting in a representative capacity, the Council sent representatives to the Detroit Stuilent Association. This was an excellent movement as it gave student opinion to the City Council and the Club Women who were attempting to create public opinion in the effort to save the schools

The Council hopes to continue to serve the pupils of Northwestern in an ever widening sphere of activities

NORWESTER

The 1934 Norwester staff consisted of an almost entirely new group of students under the leadership of Edmund Rawson, editor, and Elsa McClelend, associate editor. Though nexperienced, these students were willing workers. The work of editing, photographing, and designing the 1934 Norwester was an enjoyable task that will long be remembered by the group of students who participated in its publiction. Trips were made to the photographers printers, and engravers to acquaint the staff with the entire process of putting out a year book.

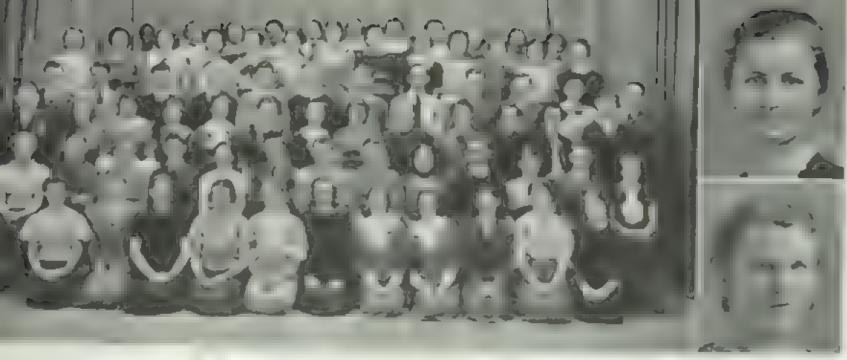

Several new features in staff work were added this year to create a stimulative force in both advertising and circulation. Two sub-staffs were established to handle publicity poster publicity was in charge of the United Artsmen, headed by Don Beyries, and Tom Carter headed a group which presented slides and skits in the auditorium during record Advertising was also handled in a different manner. George Goldstone was appointed manners manager, directly in charge of advertising, circulation, and publicity

In former years, a separate staff was appointed for each of these duties. This year however, publicity and circulation were enlarged upon, while advertising was promoted by having each staff member an "ad getter." This resulted in the solicitation of an unusually large number of advertisements, a fact which has made this edition financially possible

The circulation staff, which comprised the entire group, was divided each month into two teams, the team selling the most books receive party at the expense of the losing team.

The Norwester's purpose of publishing a complete record of the entire school year a a including in its pages a division devoted to the Undercussion.

The fine cooperative work of the staff is due largely to the faculty advisors. Miss Lydia E. Holiman, who was in charge of the literary work; Mr. Patrick Sullivan, who handled the business matters; and Miss Florence Guenther and Mr. Joseph Boltz, who deceted art and pullicity work

ODDS AND ENDS, 1933-34

Despite the depression, the staff of the Odds and Ends has succeeded, during the past year, in maintaining the high position held by the magazine for many years. Two issues of the Odds and Ends, those of November and December, 1933, were submitted for judgment to the Columbia Scholastic Press Association's critical service for literary high school publications. As has been the case for several years, the Odds and Ends was awarded first place. The n gazine represents the type of publication the Odds and Ends staff has been turning out for years.

The theme of the two issues awarded hators by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association carried a patriotic keynote. The first issue was based on the NRA and its accomplishments, and the second was written on the CWA. These issues were the subject of many compliments received by the Odds and Ends staff, among them a congratulatory letter from the Superintendent of Public Instruction of the State of Management

The original purpose of the Odds and Ends was to serve as a clearing house for creative work of all kinds, to be submitted by any or all members of the school. This policy has been adhered to with marked succe s. The magazine not only provides a fertile field for the development of literary talent, but also offers a wide range of opportunity tor experience in business management, advertising, and the various phases of publishing. The interviews appearing in recent issues of the Odds and Ends were those with Fifiel Barrymore, Tito Schipa, and Amos 'n' Andy. Book reports, poems, short stories, sports stories, sports articles, essays, and features complete the literary offering

The editor-in-chief during the fall season was Ethel Shearer, with Marjorie Shippy editor during the spring term. Robert Duncan, former literary editor, is now assistant editor with Willis Scudder. Miss N Edith Tilton acted in the capacity of general advisor with Mr. Joseph K Boltz handling the art wilk

COLT

The Colt is one of the publications of Northwestern High School, and has gained distinction through the many years of service it has given the school as an official news paper. At the time of the Colt's origin, it was a very small sheet and was one of the few school papers in the city. Gradually it was the service a larger paper so that all the news of the school's activities might be published. The primary aim of the Colt is to supply the students with information about other students, teachers, and school activities. However, the Colt also plans an important part in acquainting the parents with the school life of their children. An outsider may gain an intimate picture of a school in action by a brief perusal of its school paper, and it is with this thought foremost that the Colt is published

The Colt strives to give unbiased accounts of school happenings, and prints amusing articles as well as informatory ones. Perhaps the most popular item with the students is that called the "Tantal zing Truths." The identity of the author of this column is unknown, and it is his duty to gather bits of personal and amusing information about the students. Other regular features are the student biographies, which are interviews with illustrious 12-A's, and articles about various teachers of the school.

The past year his been a successful one for the Colt. Under the leadership of Robert Couplin during the first term and of Bette Snath during the second semester nine issues were printed. With the exception of the editors, there was latte change in the staff during the two terms. Doris Caldwell and lack McLeod have each served two terms as associate editors, and have done a very creditable piece of work. This capacity Wallace Rosenbo. In Watson Colpus have been off acut business managers. Publicity was furnished by the United Artsmen under the direction of Frine Gregory. Mr. A. H. Kreman again acted as faculty advisor.

DRAMATICS

GRUMPY

"touriesy to the May, 1934 Class "touripy" was produced May 11th and 12th under the direction of Miss Gettemy. It is a mystery story, involving a diamond robbery and the clever unravelling of the crime by an aged man. A unique feature was the running of the play thru in continuous manner with no infermission. The elaborate staging was arranged by Mr. Boltz and the music furnished by Mr. Miller

DIRTY HANDS

"Dirty Hands," a clean comedy, had its first production in Detroit in honor of the lamiary, 1934 class, on December 15th and 10th. The plot had to do with a young woman who wanted her his indicates up every evening and sit in the partor. He preferred to work in the basement on a collar-button machine that he had invented. DEBATING TEAM

After the call for debaters had been sounded and the tryouts completed, Mr. Karl Scott, the coach, selected the four people whom he believed best qualified to argue for Northwestern. This squad was composed of tarl Berwick, Lowell Krieg, James Irwin and Theresa Shusta, altitude, with Ashley Cohurn as student manager. They possessed a handicap for forensic work, namely inexperience. This was partially offset by the speaking ability of the group. The team was quick to realize the importance of the handicap, and began working immediately on the negative side of the proposition, "Resolved, That All Radio Broadcasting in the United States Should Be Done in Stations Owned and Operated by the Federal Government." A second incident strongly impressed the importance of working upon the debaters. Mr. 5 of announced that he had drawn the names of the tour schools to be encountered in the league debates. The schedule was as tollows: First, Ferndale; second, Redford, city champions for two years; third, Northern, and fourth, Hamtramek.

Undaunted, the team passed through a series of practice debates in which they met tourteen different high schools. The debaters were then invited to participate in the state-wide tournament held at Kiver Rouge as a prelinde to the league encounters. It was here that the Northwestern team received recognition for its strenuous endeavors; the Colts alone in the entire tournament remained unbeaten. The debaters successfully out-tilked both of their opponents, the two teams that River Rouge, their host, had entered into the contest

The stage was then set for the Ferndale debate, but alas, the laurels were awarded to the opponents in a one judge decision. Then, in rapid succession, the Northwesterners were conquered by both Redford and Northern by two-to-one decisions. In the last en deavor to reward Mr. Scott for his strong determination, the debaters, at a home debate won from Hamtramek by a two-to-one vote

Another debating season ended maybe rather unsuccessfully as far as laurels are concerned, but the knowledge gained by the debaters is invaluable

Football

The football team repeated its performance of 1933 by again winning the West Side championship

Haying at the Cooley field in a non-league game, the Red and Grav team, with three regulars missing from the lineup, was defeated. Lawrence Korem scored the lone Colitonchdown on a sixty-five yard run

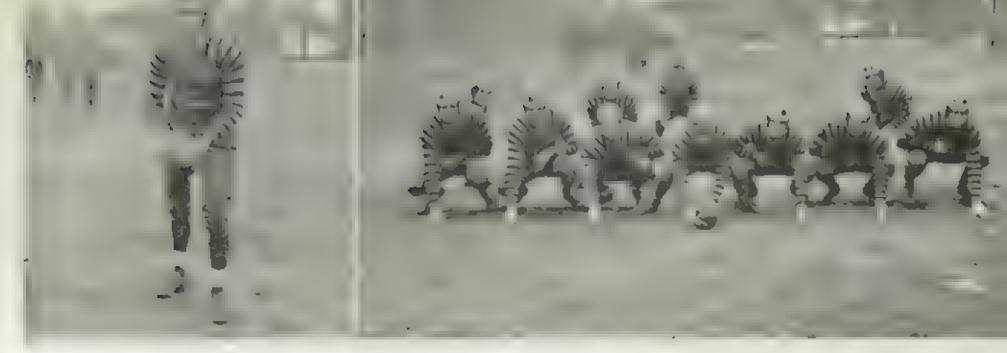

Western, the Colts' next opponent, was on the short end of the score when rain stopped the same in the fourth quarter. John Stirling and William Allan each tallied in the

The first home game was played against Cass Tech. On a line plunge from the one William Allan scored in the latter part of the first half. Displaying their best form of the season, the Colts staged a raily in the last half which reconnited for three more touchdowns.

I'wo of the oldest rivals in the city met when Eastern and Northwestern clashed the following week. An unchceked march down the field by the Colt gridders brought the first touchdown. Carlyle Rice was instrumental in scoring the second touchdown. Tesse Corona star Eastern back, battered the Northwestern line, but the line held. An added feature of the season was the game played between the Eastern "E" Club and the Northwestern Northwestern Northwestern Northwestern Northwestern Northwestern Study at Berry Field to provide for scholarship funds. Although both teams had scoring chances they battled to a scoreless to

The Colts virtually chuched the West Side title who, they deteated Southwestern Northwestern scored in the first quarter, and a poor punt in the second period put the ball in position for another score, but the Wilkis, Southwestern back, intercepted a Colt pass and ran a thty-five yards for a touchdown. Northwestern scored its second touchdown in a pass, from Ray Watters to John Stirling in the last three minutes. Play which gave Northwestern the victors.

The Colts waited until the final quarter of the Mackenzie game to stage a thribug rally, scoring three touchdowns in rapid succession and winning the game. Malcolm Connard diminutive Colt quarterback, received a point and ran eighty yards to score the first touch down of the perod. A pass from Rice to Gonard brought the ball to the two yard line and Rice cracked the Stag are to score. Two more passes thrown by Rice to Conard decided the game.

Football

In the City championship playoffs the Red and Gray eleven was defeated by Cooley and Northeastern, respectively, in the U. of D. stadium. The Cooley game, played on a snow-covered field, proved to be a punting duel between Robert Cooper of Cooley and John Stirling of Northwestern. Cooper scooped up one of Stirling's punts and raced from mid-field for the first score. Northwestern, relying on its passing attack, was defeated when a Colt pass in the latter part of the game, intercepted by Cooper, resulted in a second touchdown for Cooley.

The Northeastern game, played the following week, was the final tilt for the Colis. A forty yard pass from Peter Denys to Adam Filipezak gave Northeastern the only score of the game,

Gordon Temphu, John Cole, and Carlyle Rice received honorable mention on the all state team. Captain Gordon Temphu and Malcolm Connard were named on the all city eleven.

Due to the fact that there are not enough veterans returning next year, no aptain has been elected. There will be a captain chosen before each game

BOYS' BASKETBALL

The nucleus of the winning basketball team was formed with the return of several veterans from last year. Coach Carty deserves high recognition for his efficient hindling of the team. The team was one of the best ones produced in Northwestern.

Every league game was won by large scores except the one with Central. The two teams were on even terms, but the superb form of Robert McItatosh helped the Centrables to eke out a victory over the Colts. The remainder of the schedule was completed without contact. The team was comprised of Mailolm Connard, Hugh Vail, Edwin Lindsay, J. L. Cooper, and Charles Pink, Malcolm Connard was the captain

In the City Playoffs at the Armory, the Colt quintet was deteated by Northern in the senn-huals. The game was fast and thisling from the very start. Northwestern, though behind during the first quarter, improved and was ahead by a slight margin by the end of the first half. During the latter part of the game the Colts staged a valuant rally, but to no avail, and the game ended as High Vail scored the final goal for Northwestern two points behind their opposients.

The game with Hamtramck, the following night, gave the Colts third place. The Colt quintet outplayed the Cosmos throughout the entire game. The final game verified the fact that this team was one of the finest that Northwestern has had

INDOOR TRACK

The Northwestern indoor track team remained undefeated in three dual meets. The Red and Gray Thinelads tramphed over Western, Southwestern, and Cass Tech, piling up a total of 210 points while fifty five points were scored against them. In the Cass Tech meet, held in the Northwestern gym, the Colt relay team broke a record of eight years standing Wilham Quarles was a consistent winner for the Colts, placing in the shot put, thirty yard dash, 220 yard dash old running as anchor man on the relay team.

The Colts, con ded a slight chance to win the City track title, placed third with 215,6 points. Hamtramek, the defending champions, retained the title with a score of 37½ points. The Northwestern boys who won their events were Ralph Howard, who easily outclassed his opponents with a toss of forty-four feet two inches, and Nelson Mashatt, who won the half mile race. Second places went to the relay team, Irving Dufour and Jack Durant in the 440, and William Quarles and Lander Scott in the 220.

The 1933 outdoor track team placed third in the City meet held at the University of Detroit stadium by scoring seventeen points. Hamtranick upset predictions by capturing the outdoor title. The Colts won all their triangular meets, and won the West Side title with a total of fity-one points.

BOYS BASEBALL

The fine pitching of Carlyle Rice and the combined batting power of the whole team enabled the Northwestern baseball team to win the City championship

Playing against Mackenzie in their first league game of the season, the Colts displayed weak hitting power. The game developed into a pitching duel between George Munros of Mackenzie, and Carlyle Rice, Colt southpaw. The Stags were allowed only six hits

The Colt nine edged out Western in an exciting eight mining go ic. Leonard Theisen Western hurler, put the Cowboys ahead in the eighth mining, but Rice renewed the Colt attack that won the game for Northwestern

Commerce and Southwestern were next defeated by the fine teamwork of the Colt team

The Red and Gray team was forced into an extra immig to conquer the Chadsey nine. Three hits and an error brought four runs for the Colt batters in the eighth 1 ming.

Northwestern finished its league schedule by winning its game from Cass Tech. Ricclard the Mechanics to the hats, striking out six men

The first game of the City championship series, played against Southeastern, resulted in a complete victory for Northwestern. A home-run bit by William Riley, Jungaleer third baseman, started a fifth immig tally which was cut short when Rice struck out Donald Prewer to retire the side.

Before the largest prep crowd of the season, the Colt sluggers blanked Cooley in the City championship game played at Navin field

Northwestern scored one run in the first, second, and fitth immigs and added more in the seventh. Rice showed his best form of the season, striking out mine Cardinal batters

The excellent coaching of Mr. Maas brought the team another championship title

GIRLS SWIMMING

Once a in Northwestern upbeld her reputation for producing some of the best girl swimmers in the city. To lead them in their meets, the team was fortunate in having as their captain, Marion Petrequin, an outstanding diver of recognized ability. Caris B itty and Mary Forsyth free stylists, and Lillian Walker, back stroker, were other prominent Collettes who helped to establish the fine record of this year's team.

The Northwestern girls' swimming team participated in five meets, winning all but one. The girls were victorious in the contests with the terms from Cooley, boutheas orn. Fastern and Hamfranck, winning all but the contest with Cooley by large margins. The girls were, however, defected by the team from Highland Park.

In the meet held at Cooley, the Colt swimmers met with keen competition but succeeded in winning the meet. The Coltettes were especially eager to win the match held if the Highland Park pool, and although our girls showed a fine lighting spirit, they were forced to recognize the superiority of the Highland Park team, the 1933 champions

The team was well re-esented in the diving matches. Marion Petrequin carried off first place in every meet; and Ada J. jet Clark, Beryl Jackson, and Ruth Gustafson, all fine divers, gained many points for Northwestern in this event

Miss Fisie Watson, the coach, has many fine prospects who will have an excitent opportunity to regain the championship for Northwestern next year. She deserves a great deal of praise for the many hours of coaching spent with the team, and it was she who was responsible for the fine showing which the girls made.

GIRLS' HOCKEY

Cass Tech and Southwestern were the only teams who competed with Northwestern girls bockey team during the fall season. The Collettes were victorious in both matches. The tains weather made the bockey field so middly that the other regularly scheduled games could not be played before the season ended. However, the girls, with Theresa Downey as a plain, did not let the weather dampen their ardor. Each afternoon they practically belong and passing and conducting the regular indoor routine. The remaining games scheduled for the fall season were played off during the Spring.

Miss Watson who coached the hockey team picks the girls from the house hockey tournaments. A hockey party was given at which Betty Sweat was chosen to lead the team to chare next sees.

GIRLS' GOLF

With Flsa McClelend as captain, the sirls' golf team completed an iher successful season. Other members of the team were Peggy Jane Murray, Norma Pioch, and Virginia Ward. The girls, all veterans of the 1933 team, participated in the league contests with Central II ghland Park, Northern, and Cooley. Although they did not win all their matches, due to the co-operative sport which prevailed, the girls enjoyed worthwhile competition.

At the end of the season, a two was played with Eastern. In this meet, the boys' and girls' golf teams of Northwestern played as partners against Easterns combined teams. This match was unamnously voted the most enjoyable one of the season.

Miss Huffman was the girls' coach, and it was under her direction and supervision that the team carried on its actives.

WHITHER TEACHERS?

The versatile faculty of Northwestern High School has many a suppressed desire while correcting papers far into the early hours of the morning. Of what are these noble instructors thinking while they are impatiently reprimanding Johnny for chewing gum and Mary for neglecting her homework?

The English department seems to have teachers who dream of other things. Miss Butler would like to pick dandelions in the fields of Great Britain (if they have dandelions), to put on the graves of her favored English writers. Mr. Scott would be a criminal lawyer with this inscription in his office, "The affirmative Bears the Burden of Proof"

Mathematics doesn't give our teachers much expression for their desires. Miss Younglove wishes to bicycle over the mountains of Scotland. Miss Mathews might sell Fuller brushes but we don't know if she can knock on doors.

In our History department we have Miss Holtman who would raise strawberries entirely by ignoring the economic law of diminishing returns. Mr Carr tells us he would fish—and those activities connected with farm life, you know

Miss St. John really should not have to teach Grench but should be permitted to fence to her heart's content. And our very artistic Miss Guenther would swell the balls of the Metropolitan Opera Company with her high "C". Our hardworking Mr. Markley would be happiest chasing the Hapsburg ghosts in and about Vienna trusting his efficiency at paddling c:

Mr. Wolber would be a research engineer and is practicing on the students of North-western-searching and researching!

Our insurance agent, Mr. Remnington, would go South for a good tan and disappoint his "fain" students who just can't understand those theorems

SENIORS, ATTENTION !

The stident body of the Detroit Bootness University compares favorably with those of the hest colleges of the country. High School graduates and college people have been quick to recognize the advantage of attending a achool of business giving instruction only to selected groups with high qualifications and presenting courses broad enough to develop a trained business sense-

And the business man is quick to appreciate the fact that when he calls the D. B. U Placement Bureau for office help, he is sure every applicant will have at least one year of special college training in addition to a High School Education, and be capable of exercitive more or less mature judgment.

Prerequisite, High School Graduation
